

The Kerryman

Leading business consultant to speak in Dingle

Wednesday, September 24th, 2008

One of Ireland's most respected and successful business consultants, Peter Quinn, will be the special guest speaker at a function in the Dingle Skellig Hotel next week.

Mr Quinn, a highly respected financial adviser and a former President of the GAA and brother of business tycoon Séan Quinn, has been invited to address a gathering of local business people by the steering group of Gaeltachtaí na Mumhan Skillnet.

"We're delighted to have a consultant and business advisor of Mr Quinn's calibre coming to Dingle to talk about the realities and challenges facing enterprise today in the midst of ever changing local and global economies. The business networking event is open to all local companies, sole traders, managers, business associations and development agencies. In fact, anyone can attend and there is no charge for the event" Dónal Mac an tSíthigh of Skillnet told The Kerryman.

Registration will take place from 7.45pm and the session will conclude at 9pm. Further information from Dónal Mac an tSíthigh at 087 6975008 www.gaeltachtnetworks.com